CONDUCTING SALES.

Many people have somehow acquired the notion that when a dealer conducts a sale he is trying to unload a lot of undesirable merchandise. While this occasionally may be true, it is more often not the case, but rather merely an advertising plan designed to draw people into the store.

Often times goods are marked almost at cost to the merchant and then advertised for sale during a certain period of time.

The object is to make it worth while for the people to come in and not only buy the advertised goods but to purchase other merchandise at regular prices. The dealer's profit then is not on the sale articles but on the others.

If everyone bought only the merchandise advertised in the sale, the dealer would make no money. But he displays his other goods conspicuously so that customers can see them and save themselves time by making further purchases. Thus he makes additional sales that are profitable and the customer saves money and saves time through buying a big bill of goods at the one store.

THE GOVERNMENT WANTS YOU

Will Pay $1,000 a Year After You Have Had Proper Training.

Every young man, as well as every young woman, who desires to serve the Government, doing office work, at a salary of one thousand dollars a year, should read the following letter and act NOW:

Nashville, Tenn., 11-24, 1917
Editor of The Chronicle.

Dear Sir:—You are hereby authorized to appoint and send to us, with a letter of introduction from you, five worthy young men and and young women each of whom will take training for an office position with the government, at a salary of not less than ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS a year to begin on.

We will give the persons whom you appoint the necessary training here or by mail, and we will give each of them a written guarantee that, if we do not secure for him or her a position as stenographer for the government at a salary of at least one thousand dollars a year to begin on, just as soon as he or she becomes qualified, we will refund every cent of the money paid to us for the training. This offer applies to young men who are subject to draft, as well as to others.

The President of the Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C., recently wrote to this institution, urging it to help the government to secure more office assistants, both men and women, the government now being in need of TEN THOUSAND stenographers and any bookkeepers. The government has a representative here every Tuesday to interview any of our students who may desire a stenographic position with the government.

In order to give you some idea of the government's urgent need of office assistants, we ask you to read the following recent telegram from the government:

THE TELEGRAM.

Washington, D. C.—Miss Vera Gilley, Murfreesboro, Tenn., You have been appointed clerk—bookkeeper, Internal Revenue Bureau—salary, one thousand dollars a year. Report immediately at Room 234 Treasury Building.

Signed. Roper, Commissioner.

Miss Gilley received the above telegram on the day that she received a diploma from this institution, she having on that day completed our Home Study Bookkeeping Course, which enabled her to pass successfully the Civil-Service Bookkeeping examination, which she took three weeks before she had fully completed our bookkeeping course by mail.

Not only is the government in need of office assistants, but business concerns also are in great need of them.

To any one who will indicate an interest in this matter, we shall be pleased to mail literature giving more information.

Yours very truly,

DRAGHON'S PRACTICAL BUSINESS COLLEGE,

Jno. F. Draughton, President.
